PRICE FOUR CENTS

STORM MAIN AXIS DEFENSES

OPA STUDIES MEAT PRICES OVER NATION

Narrowly Averts Break In Anti-Inflation Program, Cancels Order.

CEILINGS TOO HIGH

Planned Maximums Would Have Brought Increase of 7 Per Cent.

(By International News Service) WASHINGTON — The Office of Price Administration, having narrowly averted a serious breach in its anti-inflation defenses, today launched a nation-wide study of retail meat prices in an effort to protect American consumers from a seven per cent rise in the cost of beef, veal, lamb and mutton.

Twenty-four hours before dollars and cents ceilings on these products were to have become effective, the OPA discovered that the new retail maximums would have directly contravened the president's order to "hold the line" against the rising cost of living.

Bureau of Labor statistics disclosed that the new ceiling, scheduled to have become operative today, would have permitted the country's 600,000 storekeepers to charge an average of seven per cent more for beef, veal, lamb and mutton.

OPA promptly called a halt on the institution of the dollars-and-cents regulation and postponed its effective date until May 17. This 13th hour safeguard against higher living costs coincided with the following developments:

(1) Price Administrator Prentiss M. Brown informed landholders that they are better off than they were before the war, bluntly advising them that he will not permit any break-through of the rent ceilings.

(2) The OPA issued uniform mark-ups which retailers will use in determining their maximum price ceilings on seven fresh vegetables—cabbage, carrots, lettuce, peas, snap beans, spinach and tomatoes.

After postponing the new meat price ceilings, OPA ordered regional and district offices to check existing prices and called a series (Continued on Page 9, Col. 6)

BOY KILLED

Dies as Clothing Catches on Sawmill Flywheel.

BUENOS—Jack E. Eckelberry, 16-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Eckelberry of Sandusky, was instantly killed last night in a sawmill accident near Republic, northeast of here.

The youth's skull was fractured, authorities said, when his clothing caught in a belt and crushed him against a flywheel.

The boy, who had been living with an aunt, Mrs. C. H. Durrig, of Bucyrus, R. D. 2, was employed at the Gilbert Enders mill. Funeral services will be conducted at 2:30 p. m. Saturday at the Munz Funeral home. Rev. O. M. Lashley pastor of the First Baptist church will officiate. Burial will be in Union cemetery east of Sulphur Springs.

HITS IRISH

Churchill Deplores Lack of Conscription.

LONDON — (AP) — Prime Minister Churchill, commenting on the lack of conscription in northern Ireland, said today "It certainly is a very unsatisfactory situation that large numbers of Americans should be taken by compulsion from their homes and made to stand on guard while large numbers of local inhabitants are under no such obligation."

He spoke in reply to a question in the house of commons.

RATIONED NOW

Play Shoes Put Back On List Beginning Today.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Play shoes shipped from factories are back on the rationing list. Beginning today, play shoes shipped from factories will be stamped with the date and may be sold only with coupons. Such shoes shipped before today will remain unrationed.

Use of Highway Department to Lobby for Bricker Bills Bared

SENATE HEARS MESSAGE TO CONTACT MEN

Letter Shows Pressure Put on Local Chairmen and Legislators.

REINERS REVEALS NOTE

Exposure Made In Debate on Bill To Withhold Road Cost Estimates.

(By United Press) COLUMBUS — Disclosure that state highway department "contact men" are instructed to lobby for legislation desired by the state administration yesterday highlighted senate passage of a bill to revise the method of bidding on state highway construction projects.

The senate voted 21-11 to approve a bill of Rep. Guy C. Hiner, (R-Stark) previously adopted in the house, which would authorize the state highway director to withhold engineer's estimates of highway construction costs until bids on projects have been received.

Sen. Fred G. Reinners, (R-Hamilton) opposing the measure, recalled that Republican majorities in two previous assemblies had defeated similar proposals and revealed a letter of highway public relations Director A. A. Hoppin-garner to "contact men" throughout the state asking them to push enactment of administration measures in their contacts with local Republican "chairmen or legislators."

The letter, dated April 3, urged passage of three school finance bills, the governor's proclamation (Continued on Page 9, Col. 2)

RATION BOOK 3

It Will Be Distributed Late In July, OPA Reveals.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — OPA officials reported today ration book No. 3 would be issued soon, probably late in July, to be used primarily for shoes, sugar and coffee as soon as book No. 1 runs out of stamps.

The No. 3 volume issue also may be used to provide a couple more months of canned goods and meat stamps, since it was designed to handle both point and unit system of rationing.

No. 3 book may be distributed by mail. The volume has two kinds of stamps. In one group are four series, one bearing pictures of tanks, another aircraft carriers, a third airplanes, and a fourth field artillery. In addition the book has four pages of point stamps similar to the canned goods and meat stamps in book 2.

Even Fala Chips In to Second War Loan Drive

Even though he failed his physical when he tried to enlist in the armed forces, Fala, President Roosevelt's pet Scottish terrier, is still doing his part for the war effort. Mrs. Laura Franklin Delano, wife of the chief executive's first cousin, is pictured above presenting Fala with a War Dog Fund certificate after the Scottish had bought a bond. Fala is too light for service duty.

WHITE HOUSE GETS PROTEST

Correspondents Charge Ban on Reporters Abridges Freedom of Press.

(By International News Service) WASHINGTON — The Washington correspondents corps today joined members of congress in protesting the ban on newspaper coverage of the International Food conference scheduled to begin at Hot Springs, Va., May 18.

The standing committee of correspondents, governing body of the more than 550 newsmen accredited to the senate and house press galleries, bitterly denounced the ban in a formal protest to the White House, state department and the office of war information.

As additional members of the senate and house lined up behind resolutions pending in both branches demanding that the conference be thrown open to the three large press associations, the correspondents attacked the news ban as a "denial of legitimate news to the American public and hence an abridgement of the freedom of the press."

The resolutions also call for creation of a special congressional (Continued on Page 8, Col. 3)

NAZIS REPORT CONVOY ATTACK

Claim Two Destroyers Sunk Off British Coast.

(By Associated Press) The Berlin radio said today a German motor torpedo boat formation sank two destroyers of the Hunt class, a 4,000-ton tanker and a small ship in an attack on a British convoy off the south coast of England in the vicinity of Fal-mouth Tuesday night.

The broadcast, which was recorded by the Associated Press, also said a 4,000-ton steamer and two other vessels were damaged. There was no confirmation of the German claims from any Allied source.

SINKING TOLD

Audacious Attack Revealed After Year and Half.

HALIFAX, N. S. — (AP) — An enemy submarine audaciously penetrated a harbor of the Caribbean island of St. Lucia early in 1942 and sank the Canadian National Steamship Lady Nelson at her dock. It was disclosed today after a year and a half of censorship.

It was believed the U-boat entered the harbor by torpedoing a hole in submarine nets guarding the entrance.

The 7,750-ton Lady Nelson, aboard which 16 Negro deck passengers lost their lives when she was torpedoed, has since been raised and soon will be back in war service as Canada's first hospital ship of World war II.

MORE EAT OUT

Sales Tax Report Shows Jump in Restaurant Business.

COLUMBUS — (AP) — The weekly sales tax collection report released by State Treasurer Don Ebrigh indicated today that more people are eating out since food rationing began.

Sales tax collections on food sold in restaurants and hotels climbed to $117,581 for the week ending April 3, as compared with $98,618 for the corresponding 1942 week, the report said.

RAMS ENGINE

Auto Hits Locomotive, Driver Injured.

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Paul Shade, 41, Canal Winchester, received minor injuries and was arrested on an intoxication charge last night after his automobile struck a slowly moving Big Four switch locomotive at a grade crossing here.

A flagman attempting to stop traffic had to leap to keep from being struck by Shade's car, police were told.

JAIL SOLDIER IN CHECK CASE

One In Custody Accused of Passing Five, Another Being Hunted.

A former soldier was held today by police after he confessed forging five checks in the county for a total of $47, while authorities continued their search for a soldier who cashed at least five checks in the city last week without funds in the bank.

Arrested last night in Mansfield by Patrolman Richard Hecht was Murle A. Barnard, 27, who, detectives said, signed a written confession. A forged check was filed against him by Nick Procon, proprietor of the Green Leaf cafe, North Main street, who cashed two of the checks.

Barnard said he came to Mansfield recently as a truck driver after he was honorably discharged from the army because of his health. Police records show he was turned over to a U. S. marshal here in January for wearing a military uniform illegally.

Barnard said he cashed one check for $16.28 at Bob's night club in Plymouth and two for about $7 each at the Shiloh Sav- (Continued on Page 20, Col. 4)

Freezing Weather Due to Lift; Crop Loss Check Starts

A let-up in the five-day spring cold wave was forecast today as orchardists and gardeners surveyed the damage to their crops by the freezing weather.

Slowly rising temperatures and more snow were forecast for tonight by the weatherman after a storm that brought as much as five inches of snow hit northern Ohio last night.

With the mercury at a low of 20 this morning in Mansfield, one of the lowest marks ever recorded here in April, orchardists feared that peaches and possibly other fruits were seriously damaged. Only the sturdiest peach trees survived, and the below-freezing temperatures of the past five days probably put an end to the crop.

British Attack Enfidaville as RAF Hits Nazis

Stuttgart Pounded by Blockbusters While Allies Tighten Ring on Last Enemy Stronghold Near Tunis; 19 Planes Bagged.

(By Associated Press) Allied headquarters disclosed today Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's British Eighth army had begun to storm the main Axis defense line at Enfidaville, 50 miles below Tunis, and German and Italian prisoners captured since March 20 had risen to 30,000.

"Our troops continued their advance on most sectors of the Tunisian front," a communique from Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's headquarters announced.

The war bulletin said Lieut. Gen. K. A. N. Anderson's British First army pressed its offensive north of Medjez-El-Bab, 34 miles southwest of Tunis, and seized "an important feature over difficult country in the face of strong opposition."

Italian headquarters reported "lively fighting all along the front, particularly in the western sector" where the British First army is operating.

World events at-a-glance:

AIR WAR—RAF blockbusters attack Stuttgart in "very heavy" night raid; 23 bombers lost; other Allied planes, believed Russian, renew attack on East Prussia; Nazi raiders bomb Thames estuary towns and East Anglia.

INVASION JITTERS — Paris radio says evacuation ordered for Le Havre, France's second largest port, as Nazis clear potential invasion beachheads.

On the Tunisian front, Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's last-straw grasp on the North African bridgehead was under hammering assault in at least three main sectors, and it was likely, too, that the Axis chief was feeling the pinch of dwindling air strength as the Allies officially recorded more than 189 enemy planes destroyed since Saturday. At least 19 Axis aircraft were shot down and others destroyed on the ground yesterday.

Along with the British First army's advance in the north, Allied headquarters announced General Montgomery's Eighth army troops "are in contact with the enemy defenses on the Enfidaville line."

Enfidaville marks the southeast coastal anchor of Marshal Rommel's 100-mile defense zone guarding Tunis and Bizerte.

"French forces continued their successful advance in the range of hills to the west of the Enfidaville line and yesterday captured over 400 prisoners," the Allied communique said.

Front dispatches said Marshal Rommel still had about 10 airfields left in his fast-shrinking corridor and cautioned against counting on German air power in the North African theater too soon. Nevertheless, the destruction of some 200 Axis planes in five days, including 134 big fuel- (Continued on Page 9, Col. 1)

THREAT: Jap Combat Fleet In Waiting Near Truk, Allies Told

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Aleutians air force command broke all previous records for number of attacks on Kiska in a single day, the navy reported today, when the enemy-held island was raided ten times Tuesday by both heavy and medium bombers.

BULLETIN WASHINGTON — (AP) — A constantly increasing flow of aircraft and other military supplies was promised today by Secretary of War Stimson for the forces of General Douglas MacArthur in the southwest Pacific.

(By Associated Press) ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA — A great Japanese combat fleet is constantly being maintained in the Truk area, "within less than three days' sailing distance of New Guinea," a spokesman for Gen. Douglas MacArthur said today in a statement containing the third such warning from the Allied command in three days.

The statement came soon after the announcement the Japanese had launched their third air attack in force in four days on an Allied base in New Guinea yesterday with an attack on Milne bay that cost the enemy probable losses of 30 planes, including 22 bombers.

BRACES: Hitler Enlists Aid of Satellites to Meet Invasion

LONDON — Adolf Hitler appeared to be working frantically today to enlist the aid of his Balkan satellites in advance of a possible Allied invasion through that troubled land after the Tunisian mop-up.

German radio broadcast propaganda stressing Rumanian cooperation with the Axis following Hitler's conferences this week with Rumanian Premier Ion Antonescu. One comment emphasized that the meeting "helped to solve the question" of massing Europe for the next Nazi efforts.

A London radio report said Hungarian Prime Minister Nicholas Kallay was next on Hitler's conference list. Observers figured Hitler may be trying to settle Rumanian-Hungarian territorial arguments before invasion time.

The importance of these meetings was illustrated by a Transocean news agency dispatch broadcast by Berlin radio which quoted the Essener National Zeitung as saying: "Total mobilization of all reserves for the impending stage of war is today of paramount importance for the march to final victory . . . the meeting without doubt helped solve the question."

The conferences were being held as invasion fears increased along the entire southern European front. (Continued on Page 9, Col. 4)

MISS ANN HORVATH WILL WED IN APRIL

Lovely Party Given By Miss Mary Ferrell and Mrs. Robert Pussey Reveals Date of Wedding of Mansfield Nurse and Ralph P. Gramly.

THE ENGAGEMENT and approaching marriage of Miss Ann Horvath to Ralph P. Gramly is being announced by A. J. Horvath, Mansfield R. D. 5, brother of the bride-elect, and was revealed Wednesday night at a lovely party given in the home of Mrs. John Kohler, 77 Wood street, with whom Miss Horvath resides, by Miss Mary Ferrell and Mrs. Robert Pussey.

During the evening, various games were played by guests. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. D. W. Leitch, Miss Mary Gramly, Mrs. C. E. Ayers, Mrs. L. Boebel, Mrs. R. Reed, Mrs. A. J. Horvath, Mrs. Maude Reed and Mrs. William Garner. Winners of games found, upon opening the prizes, a part of an incomplete message, which, when assembled, revealed the date and other details of the wedding.

When hostesses served luncheon, buffet style, late in the evening, the refreshment table, which was presided over by Mrs. Kohler, was centered with an attractive arrangement of pink and white sweet peas and pink roses and lighted tapers. A pink and white color scheme was used throughout the evening. Miss Ferrell and Mrs. Pussey presented the honoree with a personal gift.

Miss Horvath and Mr. Gramly, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Gramly, R. D. 2 of this city, will be united in marriage in an open church ceremony Saturday, April 24, at the St. Mark's Lutheran church. Rev. C. A. Portz, pastor of that church, will perform the nuptial service at 7:30 p. m.

The bride-elect of Mr. Gramly is employed as a nurse at the Mansfield General hospital. Mr. Gramly is an employee of the Farm Tools company, Inc.

Wedding Bells Ring In March, April for Mansfield Girls

MRS. DAVID CAMERON

MRS. HERMAN C. BRAEN

This City and Rome, N. Y., Chosen For Recent Ceremonies of Mansfield Couples

Announce Wedding of Helen Louise Hess to Cpl. Braen.

MRS. ETHEL SMITH, 37 Baldwin avenue, is today announcing the marriage of her daughter, Miss Helen Louise Hess, to Cpl. Herman C. Braen, son of Mrs. Louise Braen of Washington, D. C., that took place Tuesday, April 13.

The couple was united in marriage in an archway banked with bouquets of snapdragons and double stock in the bride's home. The single ring ceremony was read by Rev. Richard Taubenheim at 3:30 p. m.

The bride was attired in a beige street length dress with black accessories. She wore a gold necklace which had been loaned to her maternal grandmother. Her shoulder corsage was of orchids.

Mrs. Noel Smith of Shelby was matron of honor for her sister, Mrs. Smith, who wore a green and black ensemble with a corsage of pale yellow orchids. George Braen, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man.

Nuptial music was presented throughout the ceremony by Miss Laura Hamilton, friend of the bride.

At the reception which followed the wedding, refreshments were served buffet style from a long table centered with a three-tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom and an arrangement of sweet peas.

Late in the day Cpl. Braen and his bride left for Washington and Pittsburgh on their wedding trip. The new Mrs. Braen was wearing a navy suit with navy and white accessories over which she wore a light blue topper.

Before entering the armed forces Cpl. Braen was employed at the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company, where Mrs. Braen is now employed. Cpl. Braen is stationed at Camp Campbell, Ky.

All animal and plant life is believed to contain glycine in some form.

CONVERSATIONAL CLUB CONCLUDES OHIO STUDY

Two prominent young people of this city, Miss Jacqueline Keihl and David Cameron, were united in marriage in a single ring ceremony which took place at the Commodore hotel, situated at the foot of the Adirondack mountains in Rome, N. Y. The nuptial service was read by Rev. Charles D. Close.

For her wedding, Miss Keihl was attired in a tailored beige suit, with which she wore diamond accessories. Mrs. Grif Williams, the bride's only attendant wore a tailored blue frock. Both wore corsages of gardenias. Grif Williams served as Mr. Cameron's best man.

After the ceremony, a dinner was given in honor of the newly married couple by the hotel management and members of Mr. Williams' orchestra.

The new Mrs. Cameron is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Fenton, West Fourth street. Mr. Cameron is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Cameron, Fremont boulevard. Both attended Mansfield Senior high school.

Mr. Cameron has been the drummer in the Grif Williams orchestra for the past several months, and has been employed at the winter resort.

Mrs. Cameron will make her home with the bridegroom's parents when Mr. Cameron leaves for the armed forces within the near future.

Miss Dorothy Landers was in charge of the business meeting at which reports were read by the secretary and treasurer. Members were urged to hear Mrs. Louise Wright, who will speak in this city in the near future. Mrs. Wright is sponsored by the League of Women Voters.

Hikers will meet at the home of Mrs. Gertrude Kern, at the corner of Schulte and Davis roads, at 2 p. m. Sunday, April 18. They will take meat, bread and butter, coffee and table service.

Other officers named at the meeting, aside from the president, were Miss Dorothea Garver, first vice president; Miss Marjorie High, second vice president; Mrs. Margaret Casperson, treasurer; Mrs. Lucy Spill, recording secretary; and Miss Ruth Moffett, corresponding secretary. Newly elected officers will be installed at the next meeting.

Included on the program were vocal solos, sung by Miss Louise Turner, accompanied by Mrs. Thelma Hazeltine and talks by Lieut. Helen M. Alkire, WAAC recruiting officer for this district, and George Ganyard, county agricultural agent, who spoke on "Victory Gardens." Ronald Keenan, a senior at Mansfield Senior high school, state declamation champion, gave a reading, which won him first award. It was entitled "George Washington Slept Here."

Bricker Was Catcher Who Never Got Chance to Catch

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS—(AP)—The Columbus Red Birds announced today the starting battery for their April 19 American Association opener against Louisville.

The battery: Mayor Floyd Green, pitching; Gov. John W. Bricker, catching. This yarn belongs to the governor, who—had it not been for George M. Trautman, president of the Association—might have made his name in baseball instead of in politics.

Back in 1914, Trautman and the future three-time governor were teammates on the Ohio State varsity. Trautman, in the box scores, was listed as a pitcher, but Athletic Director L. W. St. John—the baseball coach in those days—instituted he was just a "thrower."

Jack McCallister, Boston Braves scout, recalls that on numerous occasions he was directed to scout Catcher Bricker, but that he was never able to get a line on his ability.

"Every time I tried to get a look at Bricker," McCallister said, "Trautman was pitching. Trautman could never get a ball past the batter, so I had no way of knowing whether Bricker could catch or not."

Thus, McCallister charges, Trautman's lack of pitching prowess might have kept Bricker out of the big leagues as a catcher. (The governor, who appears to be doing all right in his present line of endeavor, probably is thankful that Trautman didn't give him a chance to shine as a baseballer. At least, the governor showed his appreciation several years ago by appointing Trautman to the Ohio commission of conservation and natural resources. Trautman still has the job, which pays one dollar per year.)

Trautman recalls a game played between Ohio State and Purdue at Lafayette, Ind., in 1914. A southpaw named Fritz started as Ohio's pitcher, but was nicked for six runs in the first two frames, and Trautman took over. Rain halted the game for a while, and a drizzle was falling as play was resumed on the field ankle deep in mud and water.

Bricker, squatting behind the plate in orthodox fashion to give Trautman signals, soon tired of dunking the future gubernatorial posterior in the muck. He walked out to the mound and told Trautman:

"All signals are off. You throw anything you want to. If you can't fool a batter, you can't fool me with any of your pitches." (Purdue won 10 to 5.)

The governor recalls a busy afternoon against Chicago. He said the fast ball of Des Jardens, six-foot six-inch pitcher for the Maroons, looked like a B-B shot as it skimmed across the plate. Rolly Cook, now a lieutenant in the army, hurled for the Bucks that day, and his "spitter" baffled the opposing batters and gave Bricker a busy afternoon. Honus Graf, father of Ohio State's great fullback of 1941, broke up the game with a three-run homer as Ohio won by 6 to 1.

The Governor points with pride to a notation in the May 6, 1914, issue of the Ohio State Lantern, telling of a 7-4 win over Ohio Wesleyan. The items declares "Bricker led the assault with a single and double in four times at bat." (Even governors like their base hits, it seems.)

Bricker is still a baseball fan. He can't get to the Cincinnati and Cleveland openers this year because of previous engagements, he said, but he'll see several games during the season. He's a hunter, too, using a single-barrel shotgun. ("If I can't get 'em with one shot, they deserve to escape," is his hunting creed.) At golf, he shoots a snappy 96, which puts him at the mercy of St. John and Trautman, who always get into the governor's foursome at the University club Alumni day tournament.

The governor isn't going through any spring training chores to get set for his April 29 date. "I can catch anything Mayor Green throws, and do it barehanded," one of the governor's office staff quoted the chief executive.

Jockeys Handed Further Vacation

NEW YORK—(AP)—Jockeys Don Meade and Eddie Arcaro, under suspension since last fall, faced an additional indefinite period of inactivity today.

The license committee of the New York Jockey club denied an application of Meade to ride at the Jamaica meeting but "deferred action" on the request of Arcaro.

Both riders have been keeping in condition as exercise boys since they were grounded. Meade was put down for his part in roughing Jack Westrope, aboard Spiral Pass in the correction handicap at Jamaica, and Arcaro for his tactics in the Cowdin stakes at Aqueduct.

Meade, also denied permits by other racing associations, has been working as exercise boy for trainer George Odum.

Marshall Cassidy, steward representing the Jockey club, said that Arcaro's case will be reviewed again within the next two weeks. Arcaro has been exercising horses for Greentree stables.

Sunny Jim Tries Again

Bossuet Shows Promise Among Derby Entries.

By CHARLES MOREY

NEW YORK—(AP)—One thing almost as certain as taxes and the undertaker in the minds of America's horseplayers is that every spring "Sunny" Jim Fitzsimmons will come along with a threat for the Kentucky derby. In the past 13 years the ruddy-faced, old Irishman won the roses with Gallant Fox, Omaha and Johnstown and saddled such contenders as Granville, Fighting Fox and Apache.

For a while this year it looked as though Sunny Jim would not have a Derby starter. But last Wednesday, in the six furlong experimental handicap, a little-known colt named Bossuet, bearing the silks of the Belair stud, dropped from the clouds in the final sixteenth to say "Howdy Do" to Slide Rule right on the wire.

Bossuet didn't get the money. He missed by a head. But that finish was enough to convince all who saw it that old Fitz had done it again. Although not a Count Fleet, Bossuet looked like a tough, hard-hitting colt and one good enough to rate a chance in any man's derby.

The other day, in his second start, the Belair colt ran against the Count and had to be satisfied with second money. However, he boomed along on the head end for most of the mile and seventy yards and only gave way to the Count inside the eighth pole.

Bossuet probably will start in the Wood Memorial Saturday, where he again will meet the Count and also Blue Swords and Slide Rule. If he shows enough, Fitz is likely to ship him to Louisville for the Derby. A sour race and he stays home.

His breeding is that of a stayer. So far he has indicated that he will like a route so the Derby distance of a mile and one-quarter should not bother him. He doesn't seem good enough to trouble Count Fleet but anything can happen in a horse race.

If the Count should run into trouble on Derby day and get knocked around a little, it's just possible that a steady going colt like Bossuet could get the melon.

BUCYRUS—Bucyrus high school gridders will play their only practice game of the spring training season with an out-of-town team next Thursday when Loudonville high will bring its football team here. A trip to Loudonville for the Bucyrus boys this week was cancelled because of conflicting dates.

FIGHTERS NEED QUININE SUPPLY

COLUMBUS—(INS)—Druggists throughout Ohio have been asked to release all the quinine they can spare to a "quinine pool" being set up by the American Pharmaceutical association at the request of the army, the navy, and the War Production board, Dean

Barnard V. Christensen of Ohio State university's college of pharmacy announced. According to Dean Christensen, a past president of the National association, the armed forces are in desperate need of this essential drug, as so many men are stationed in areas where malaria is prevalent.

Collection of Pitchers Needs Whole House

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn.—(U.P.)—Mrs. Anna Houston has what is probably the world's largest collection of pitchers—5,000 of them, the result of 40 years of accumulation.

At present the collection—made up of all types and sizes and shapes—is housed in Mrs. Houston's home, which she largely built with her own hands. They are all over the house—in the attic, the basement, on ceiling-high shelves along the walls of every room; the floors are covered with them, except for a narrow path for passage through the rooms, and tables covered with more pitchers rise from those on the floor.

Formerly operator of a local antique shop, Mrs. Houston closed her business five years ago and spends all her time with the pitcher collection, which she hopes will someday be housed in a special museum.

Among her varied collection, is a pitcher supposed to have been the property of a Puritan father about 200 years ago.

40, Weighing 250, She Tries Vainly To Get War Job

CINCINNATI — (U.S.) — Miss Myrtle Green isn't the least ashamed of her age or weight—they're 40 and 250 pounds respectively—but she is beginning to get perplexed in her quest for a war production job.

For Myrtle, who stands 5 feet 6 is a regular applicant at the U. S. Employment Service's office but after getting a "line" on a job, meets rejection because of her weight.

With the rejections coming fast and repeatedly, Myrtle decided to do a little investigating "on her own."

She found that war plants provide working space for women weighing 100 to 105 pounds at most machines.

"There's not enough room for me unless additional space is provided," she says. But she hasn't given up hope.

Miss Green suggests that war plant employers "list the weight specifications to save a lot of time for some of us hefty who want to help win the war."

She plans to continue her quest for a job hoping to locate where she can "sit part of the time." Because of her weight, her feet cause her some discomfort when she stands very long, she explained.

Glamour Takes Ribbing.

Glamour gives itself a ribbing in Paramount's musical comedy, "Star Spangled Rhythm," which now is playing at the Ohio. And the ribbing is done by none other than three of Hollywood's glamour girls—Dorothy Lamour, Paulette Goddard and Veronica Lake. The three poke fun at their glamour trade-marks in a number "A Sweater, A Sarong and a Peek-a-Boo Bang." It is all about three unhappy maidens of the silver screen who come out to Hollywood to emote and are burdened down with those mantles of all-time-sweater, sarong and seductive hair-do.

Welles Stages Magic.

There's some weird magic enacted in "Journey Into Fear," production by Orson Welles, now at the Madison, that takes place in a Turkish cafe scene, with Joseph Cotten, hero of the melodrama playing a magician's stooge, and Delores del Rio on the side lines as the heroine. The magician puts the reluctant Joe Cotten in a handy coffin; has himself chained to a large wooden cross. A gun sounds, and, theoretically, the magician and Joe switch places. Actually, the magic trick is the start of the adventure in the film produced by Welles for RKO Radio. Joan Davis, Hollywood's dancing comedienne is starred in the musical romance, "He's My Guy," co-attraction.

Life in Germany.

The brutality of Nazi officialdom is tellingly revealed in Republic's "The Purple V," currently showing at the Park. John Archer and Mary McLeod are seen in the leading roles. Co-starring Tom Tyler, Bob Steele and Jimmie Dodd, Republic's "The Valley of Hunted Men," latest of the "Three Mesquiteres" series, is the other attraction. The picture depicts a clash between Montana law-and-order and Nazi saboteurs and Bundsmen.

Red Skelton.

Red Skelton's acting career began when, at 10 years of age, he joined a traveling medicine show. Since then he has been continuously in the entertainment profession and has added stock company, minstrel, burlesque, showboat, vaudeville, circus, radio and motion picture appearances to his record. He was born in Vincennes, Ind. His latest M. G. M. film, "Whistling in Dixie," is now at the Ritz. Johnny Mack Brown stars in the second attraction, "The Ghost Rider."

LEGAL NOTICE

Notice is hereby given, that Katharine Franta, Mansfield, Ohio, has been duly appointed and qualified as Administratrix in the estate of Andrew Franta, deceased, late of Mansfield, Ohio, County of Richland, Ohio. Date: March 31, 1943.

S. H. CRAMER, Probate Judge of Richland County, O. (April 1, 8, 15 N-J '43)

NOTICE OF TIME AND PLACE OF VIEW OF FINAL HEARING, ESTABLISHING A PUBLIC ROAD (BY PERMIT)

Notice is hereby given that there is before the Board of County Commissioners of Richland County, Ohio, the matter of establishing a part of a Public Road on the line hereinafter described, known as the Trimble Road; the general address and terminal of which road are as follows: Beginning at County Highway No. 215 and running westerly along with the old Mansfield-Sheboy Electric Railroad right-of-way on the southerly side of the Pennsylvania Railroad right-of-way to Township Highway No. 281 in section No. 8, Madison Township, Richland County, Ohio, a distance of approximately one-half (1/2) mile.

Said Board of County Commissioners has fixed the 19th day of April, 1943, at 10:00 o'clock A. M., as the date when and on the site of said road as the place where said Board will view the proposed line on or about which said road is to be established.

By order of the Board of County Commissioners, Richland County, Ohio. (April 15, 22 N-J '43)

JUDGE PUZZLE—

By Gene Ahern

I HAD NO DIFFICULTY WITH THE MUSIC TO MY GREAT ALLIED NATIONS VICTORY SONGS—BUT THE PUNCH-WORD, AS WE SONG WRITERS SAY, IN THIS CASE IS FREEDOM!

LET ME THINK—

I'M STYMIED IN FINDING A WORD TO RHYME WITH IT

I'M AS MUSICAL AS A GAVEL, BUT I HEARD THE MUSIC OF HIS GREAT SONG, AND IT'S A CARBON COPY OF 'HAIL, HAIL, THE GANG'S ALL HERE!'

As $136,000 Goes Into Richland War Loan Drive

Two Mansfield establishments gave Richland county's current war loan drive a shot in the arm yesterday by making purchases totaling $136,000. Lumbermens Mutual Insurance company officials are shown making a $100,000 bond purchase in the photo at the left. In the photo are representatives of the company, Robert H. Smith, Toledo; Dwight P. Smith, treasurer; Charles H. Keating, president; Paul M. Eliot, county war bond chairman; Dale G. Roth, secretary; and Scott F. Coffin, vice president. The company to date has purchased $325,000 in bonds. The photo at the right was taken after a $36,000 employee's trust fund was invested in bonds at the Dominion Electrical Manufacturing company. The money formed part of a trust fund created from the employees' profit sharing plan. In the photo, from left to right, are George Moore presenting the check to Mrs. A. J. Goldsmith, from whom the bonds were purchased. In the background are John G. Routson, Chamber of Commerce secretary, M. V. Rutherford, sales manager, and Chairman Eliot.

ASSERTS PUBLIC DOESN'T WANT MADE-OVER CARS

Research Director Declares New Models Must Embody Newest Developments.

(By United Press)

DETROIT—The automotive industry received a blunt warning today that an educated public will demand an entirely new car after the war and will not permit manufacturers to go ahead with plans to produce a modified 1942 model.

Dr. Gustav Egloff, director of research for the Universal Oil Products company, Chicago, challenged the industry's announced intention with the declaration that "the automobile public will demand a new car, not a 'dressed up' 1942 model."

Egloff's prediction contradicted the belief expressed last Friday by Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., board chairman of General Motors Corp., that the immediate postwar car would be similar to 1942 models.

"All the science and technology learned from a long war must be packed into the new cars when peace arrives," Egloff declared in an interview at the 105th meeting of the American Chemical society.

He said that "a quarter of a century of development has been accomplished in three years" under the stress of wartime needs and that the buying public "rapidly is learning of the many new construction materials which will be available for their cars."

He predicted that body designs will incorporate magnesium and aluminum alloys, new steels, plywoods, plastics of many types and anti-glare windows made of glass containing no silica. Translucent supporting posts will be used which do not obstruct or distort vision, he said, and visibility will be complete from any position in the car.

Technical sessions of the convention were halted today as the 3,500 delegates convened in a general meeting to hear Dr. Charles A. Thomas, director of research at Monsanto Chemical company, Dayton, O., describe the part of the chemist in the postwar world.

Thomas said chemistry is meeting the challenge of war and will meet the challenge of peace with technological developments that will create new jobs for returning soldiers.

"Five thousand research workers may create jobs for millions of people," he said. He urged that scientists be relieved of active military service so they can devote their time to new technological developments.

Delegates to the five-day convention, which closes Friday, re-elected Dr. Thomas Midgley, Jr.,

BIDS OPEN

Mansfield Gets Proposals For Insurance Coverage.

Bids from three Mansfield insurance firms for insurance on 46 city-owned cars, trucks, and motorcycles had been opened today by Service-Safety Director Fred B. Wolff.

The Lumbermens Mutual Insurance company offered fire, theft, and tornado coverage at an annual cost of $225.11.

All types of coverage, including fire, theft, property damage and bodily injury, was offered by the Holibaugh-Wolf agency for $352.23, while the R. F. Cox agency's bid on the same type of protection was $710.29.

Worthington, O., chairman of the board. Midgley also will succeed Dr. Per K. Frolich, Elizabeth, N. J., as ACS president on Jan. 1, 1944.

BOAT WHISTLE'S OHIO SIREN NOW

MARION—A huge two and a half foot high steam whistle that for 60 years announced the comings and goings of the American, a river boat that once was the pride of the Ohio and Mississippi rivers, is going into war service at the Marion Engineer depot.

Drafted into service as a signal that can be heard over the entire depot area, the river boat whistle was commandeered for the job of marking lunch hours, and quitting time, when all available sirens and whistles proved unsatisfactory.

CHAPTER XIII

Bill St. Clair tried earnestly to concentrate on the work he had set himself to do this afternoon. He wanted to make some calculations about moving rocks and dirt. He wanted to estimate how many tractors, scrapers, bulldozers, power posthole diggers, concrete mixers and such would be necessary, now that he had had time to study the actual airfield site itself. These heavy machines, he knew, were ready for shipment to him from San Francisco on quick telephone order.

But he couldn't concentrate on the papers before him. This was because of something old Uncle Pete Quincy had said.

Rosemary, Uncle Pete had informed him, drove in to Option. Why? Uncle Pete didn't say, and Bill couldn't guess. He himself was Rosemary's boss. But then, the girl was independent, too. She was expected to use her own discretion as to task and time whenever she felt the need. But Bill could think of no reason for her going to Option, a 12-mile drive, unless— He didn't phrase it. He just looked around. It was certainly more pleasant here in the picturesque ghost town, and their office in Uncle Pete's Lightning City hotel was fitted now with everything she could need.

He tried to concentrate on his figuring. No go. Before him seemed to materialize a man's face. A man with a snapped down hat brim, too sporty in manner and dress. A man with a peculiar smirking smile. Too, Bill's mind drifted into a consideration of Rosemary Lee's eyes. The way they pooled so frequently of late. The persistent sadness they held. The strange beauty of them in the matter what mood she might be in. Rosemary wasn't as big as a minute, really. Hardly came to his shoulder, or at least no more than to the tip of his nose, he remembered.

He put his pencil down with a snappish little gesture, drummed on the table top and stared out a door. The honest truth is he informed himself, Rosemary Lee—Boyle, rather—is a victim of circumstance, in her personal life. Malicious, devilish, circumstance. It was wholly unreasonable and unfair! She was meant to be a gay happy person, that much was obvious. Injustices like her marrying Harry Boyle were too cruel for tolerance.

But—"What business is it of mine?" he demanded, audibly now. "So long as she does her work satisfactorily, I have no reason whatever to be concerned."

That was literal, unequivocal fact. Yet in the same moment he stood up, put on his hat and himself went to his car to drive 12 miles to Option. He didn't give one thought to the unreasonable-ness of this act after his careful reasoning.

Not until he got to the town itself did he realize he had little to go on. He pulled up beside some men on a sidewalk.

"See anything of a maroon colored sedan, gentlemen?" he asked. "Girl driving in, alone? A very pretty girl?"

One of the men grinned. "None. And I'd hardly miss such a thing, mister."

Bill was in no mood for levity. He drove on, scanning every street. Finally in the business area, he parked and got out to continue his search on foot.

Main street offered him no encouragement. He turned down the block, looking carefully at every corner. He tried to reason out where she might have gone. Shopping. Theater. Telephone office. Telegraph . . . Where? He could think of nothing. In impatience he asked his question of another stranger.

"Nope, ain't seen her," the stranger said. "What you want with her, anyway?"

This flip question startled Bill. Not because it was impertinent, but because it made sense!

Just what do I want with her, he wondered! Just why did I drop everything and come in to town, as if I thought she had been in some kind of danger, or wasn't capable of minding her own affairs? I'm not a boss who snoops on employees. And Rosemary isn't an employee who has to be snooped on. Why am I here?

He walked on. Down street a ways, then, he stopped again to think. "I might as well stop kidding myself," he decided, grumpily. "The truth is I'm a little batty about a girl! Me, by Christopher in heaven!"

It was a startling fact, and it was startling that he admitted it. He, William St. Clair of New York and Washington, had been a prominent bachelor since college freshman days. Best looking and hardest to impress, the girls back in school had said of him. Later, men and women in his set often teased him about being allergic to women, or hated him exposing him to charmers who had unquestioned charms. Bill had been tolerant and genial about all this. But too, he had always been absorbed in some kind of work.

Now out here in this western town of Option, Bill St. Clair admitted that Rosemary Lee—Boyle—was the one "charmer" of them all! She, who had never consciously charmed him. Who was indeed a bit afraid of the man she called Little Boss.

"I've got to find her!" he whispered now. "Got to! I want to know why she came to town. What she's doing. If she—"

He couldn't keep Harry Boyle out of his mind, but he went on walking up this street and that, looking, searching, vague as to plans but definite as to feelings. Suppose he did find her. It would be embarrassing, his having to explain why he came. But he dismissed that bridge as one to be crossed later. Right now, he had to know she was safe.

He caught a glimpse of a maroon sedan two blocks away. Instantly he was walking fast.

People turned to stare a little at Bill St. Clair. Distinguished looking anyway, he seemed almost commanding now. Presently he was only 50 feet or so from her car, but he abruptly stopped.

Rosemary was getting out of the car, laughing and smiling at a man. Bill heard the man say: "Sure-r-r-e, we'll get a couple of drinks first, then we'll go. Sure!" They disappeared into a place marked Athletic Club. Bill St. Clair stood motionless for a long long minute, his face a study in despair. Then, slowly, he turned and walked back the way he had come.

After all, he reminded himself, the man was her husband. (To Be Continued)

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisons out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 10 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or severe poisons with smarting and burning sometimes show through something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give kidney relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Today's VICTORY GARDEN-GRAPH

Protecting Fruit Trees in Victory Garden.

By DEAN HALLIDAY
Released by Central Press Ass'n.

Fruit trees, especially the dwarf varieties, are practical in the Victory garden, but they require certain forms of protection and at times first aid when enemies attack them.

Victory gardeners who have fruit trees under their care should be alert and ready to eradicate tent caterpillars the moment they observe them, thus obviating anxiety later in the season. Tent caterpillars are especially fond of apple, cherry, peach and plum trees.

As illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Graph, the dark, varnished appearing egg masses of the tent caterpillar, containing several hundred eggs, may be found on the twigs or branches of trees as late as April. When egg masses are discovered the twigs bearing them should be removed from the tree and burned.

Usually during April the young tent caterpillars begin to hatch and make tentlike nests in tree troches, as illustrated. If discovered at this time a good method of destroying the nest and larvae of the tent caterpillar is to rub tent and inhabitants from the tree with a rag which has been tied to a long stick or pole and dipped in kerosene.

During May the full-grown caterpillars begin their descent of the trees they have nested in, feasting, or in other words, defoliating them as they migrate to the ground in search of debris upon which they can fasten their yellowish white cocoons. Any such cocoons that are found should be burned immediately for the moths emerge from them late in June to lay their eggs and start another cycle in the life of these enemies of fruit trees as well as certain ornamental trees.

From where I sit...

by Joe Marsh

John Trumbull, our postmaster, looks up from his newspaper yesterday and says: "I see they caught another one of them so-called 'gang-lords' of the Prohibition era."

"Wonder how long it's going to take us to wipe out the evil Prohibition left behind . . . not to mention the billions of dollars it cost the people?"

Well, John's right o' course. Hard to believe America could ever pass a law like Prohibition.

But from where I sit it's a big consolation—now that Prohibition is over—to see how moderation and tolerance have grown up in its place.

Nowadays, if a man enjoys a friendly glass of beer or two after a day's work, he not only can do it in clean, respectable surroundings—but he knows that no bootlegger or gangster is making a red cent on it.

THAT TICKING MEANS WE'RE CLICKING!

Take a look at your watch. See that second hand? Every time it passes four of those little marks another American freight train is on the way.

Tick. Tick, Tick, Tick—another freight train just pulled out.

That's what the railroads are doing here in America—24 hours a day—7 days a week. They are delivering tanks, guns, ammunition, and food in an endless stream.

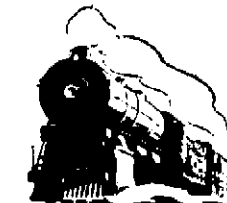

Hear that whistle? Another freight train started while you were reading.

They are carrying more than 800,000 barrels of oil daily in this record-breaking load of war and civilian goods with 20,000 fewer engines and 500,000 fewer freight cars than were used in 1917.

Tick, Tick, Tick, Tick—another freight train pulls away!

With this tremendous war job, essential civilian goods are also moving, because the Erie and other American railroads are mobilized for war.

Yes, that ticking on your watch means our railroads are clicking. And they will continue to deliver the goods in peace as well as in war!

"Property is the fruit of labor; property is desirable; a positive good in the world. That some should be rich shows that others must be poor, and hence is just encouragement to industry and enterprise. Let not him who is houseless pull down the house of another, but let him labor diligently to build one for himself, thus by example assuring that his own shall be safe from violence. . . . I take it that it is best for all to leave each man free to acquire property as fast as he can. Some will get wealthy. I don't believe in a law to prevent a man from getting rich; it would do more harm than good."—Abraham Lincoln.

Lawmakers Consider Labor Bills

BILLS intended to regulate the practices of organized labor groups are up for consideration in both the United States congress and the Ohio legislature.

The Ohio proposal, known as "The French bill," seeks to place a maximum on union initiation fees and dues and to restrict application of the check-off system of collecting dues from employees. It would also set up a three-member labor commission designed to regulate collective bargaining, union election procedure and financial reports to members. Just why a separate high-salaried commission, with members to be appointed by the governor, would be necessary, has not been explained.

The Hobbs bill, which has passed the lower house of congress by almost a 3 to 1 majority, is the outgrowth of a Supreme Court opinion a year ago, in which the high court held that the federal anti-racketeering law, as it now stands, is not applicable to such racketeering methods as were complained of in the cases under legal test—forcible seizure of trucks entering New York City and collection of union tribute.

Apparent intent of the Hobbs bill is to make labor unions liable under the same law that applies to all other persons and organizations in the country—which seems as desirable to well-intentioned unionists as to those whom it seeks to protect against the racketeering element that has injected itself into the organized labor movement.

Ohio is one of 24 states in which regulatory legislation dealing with the internal affairs of unions has been proposed, and congress has also given serious thought to possible need for restrictive laws to prevent union-imposed restraint on the output of employees in war industries.

Intention of national and state lawmakers is to remove any obstacles to all-out prosecution of the war, and the reasonable restraints necessarily placed on any minority in order to serve the best interests of the entire country are obviously proper.

It remains only to make sure that all legitimate rights of organized labor are carefully safeguarded.

Tomatoes In the Victory Garden

ONE THING recommended to every Victory gardener is to grow as many tomatoes as he can. Along with oranges, they are a great source of Vitamin C, and that is said to be the only important food factor of which there is likely to be a deficiency in this country next winter.

Tomatoes can be grown in most parts of the country from Maine to Florida and from Seattle to New Orleans. Their care has to be adapted somewhat to the climate, but with that taken into consideration, the crop can be made a great one.

Any amateur who has never canned before can learn how to can tomatoes, or put up tomato juice, and with a borrowed pressure cooker can make ketchup and Spanish sauce to flavor the winter foods.

There's nothing better to go with packed lunches than a rich, red, ripe tomato, with or without a little salt.

Move To Conserve Grain Supply

PROSPECTS now are that more petroleum and less grain will be used in the manufacture of synthetic rubber. Demand for meat is said to be bringing about this change.

Corn and wheat are the chief sources of grain alcohol. Corn is the foundation of the hog's diet. There are now 75,000,000 pigs on farms and their inroads upon the available corn supply are gigantic. Already distilleries are forced to switch from corn to wheat in making alcohol.

Distillers alone could use up the nation's wheat stores of 1,500,000,000 bushels, but the food needs of America and the Allied nations forbids that. It would be tragic to use up vast stocks of the world's leading cereal industrially and promote a food famine.

Distilleries probably will operate on wheat this year, after which the surplus wheat that remains will be held for emergencies. There is an immense quantity of molasses in Cuba that can be used by distilleries if the shipping problem can be solved. But the synthetic rubber seems destined to be produced from petroleum. The process is as simple as any and the cost is the lowest that has emerged in experiments.

Repeaters In the Liquor Line

A NEW occupation has been springing up recently. It is standing in line for pay. State liquor stores, insufficiently stocked, have long lines of customers waiting their turn. One bottle to a customer is the limit. Those wanting more, either retailers who could sell more liquor than they have been able to get, or thirsty individuals for whom one bottle is not enough, have been hiring people with more time than money to stand in line, get their bottle and transfer it to the employer.

This device need not, of course, be limited to liquor buying. It is probably used for other commodities in heavy demand that are not rationed.

A surprising thing is the number of persons available for such tedious work. Evidently neither the armed forces nor the defense plants have combed out all the population who could be spared from their present activities.

It now appears that history, as well as spelling, has been dropped from school courses—which leads one observer to suggest that "the three Rs have become 'relaxation, refreshments and rhythm.'"

The Marshalltown, Ia., public library has a real answer to a current problem. A poster in the library window says, "If you can't ride, read!"

Paragraphic pickup: "A dead town is one where everything is controlled by a few families who inherited all of it."

"They give their lives—you lend your money."

Spiritual Principles Held Vital To Winning the War and Peace

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

A READER of this column out in Merrill, Michigan, writes to advocate more spiritual and moral guidance in helping us to win the war and the peace—a thought which one encounters increasingly as the conflict rushes to its climax.

My correspondent remarks at the outset that it's difficult to write anything about religion without being classed as a fanatic. Well, it does seem that way sometimes, but I doubt if it really is so. For I find plenty of people eager to discuss the subject. After all, it's going to take more than just hell and damnation to put this world on its feet after the bloody barbarity it has undergone.

Anyway, there's no fear of adverse criticism evident in the star ward taken by Senator Harry S. Truman, Democrat of Missouri, who has declared our need for "a fighting faith." The senator did this in urging support for the moral rearmament movement.

I have noticed that the chief difficulty in our war industry program is usually the human factor," said Senator Truman in a Washington press conference. "Suspicious, rivalries, apathy, greed lie behind most of the bottlenecks."

"What we now need is a fighting faith which will last 24 hours a day, seven days a week and 52 weeks a year. We need to create a permanent incentive in the heart of every man in office and workshop. This can only come by installing personal qualities of patriotism and self-sacrifice based on moral and spiritual principles."

For a considerable time I have been watching the application of these moral and spiritual principles, not only here at home but in other Allied countries. The effect of the war effort has been remarkable in numerous instances, as many labor leaders are testifying.

Now that's worth while, when you stop to consider that a strike in a vital industry may cost the lives of thousands of Allied troops at the front, because they lack equipment. It's worth while even if it merely speeds up production, as it has done in many places.

BUT of course these moral and spiritual principles go deeper even than the saving of life through inspiring teamwork in industry. Our leaders tell us that we cannot achieve post-war rehabilitation without them. Both President Roosevelt and Mr. Churchill, among others, have emphasized the spiritual needs. General Hensley, of Britain, who died the other day, prayed for peace.

Washington Merry-Go-Round By DREW PEARSON

Davis Supports Pay-Go Tax Plan As Best Anti-Inflation Measure

WASHINGTON—Although food was supposed to be the chief topic of discussion at the recent White House conference with farm leaders, actually Foodczar Chester Davis did his best to sell the president on pay-as-you-go taxation. He proposed it as an anti-inflation measure to drain off surplus income and ease the work of income tax payment on the average citizen.

"We have simply got to come to it, Mr. President," argued the food chief. "It was unfortunate that pay-as-you-go taxes were given a black eye by the Ruml plan. But pay-as-you-go taxes should go hand in hand with rationing to prevent overspending."

The president didn't commit himself definitely, but indicated that he would favor a pay-go plan if windfalls to the wealthy, as provided for in the Ruml plan, were completely eliminated.

Ed O'Neal, president of the Farm Bureau Federation and Ezra T. Benson, executive secretary of the National Council of Farmer-Co-operators also took up the cudgels, O'Neal contending that taxpayers wouldn't be able to meet next year's assessments unless the pay-as-you-go plan or forced saving were adopted.

The conversation then turned to farm distribution and the president drew on his own experience as a farmer to illustrate the difficulty. "Little farmers" are having getting their crops to market. "I used to raise 100 barrels of apples every year on my Dutchess county farm in New York," the president said. "I also raise some apples on my land in Georgia."

Apple Competition.

THE PRESIDENT grinned to Albert Goss, master of the National Grange who hails from Washington, the biggest apple-producing state in the country. "I'd stack my apples up against those you produce in Washington any day."

"You're getting out of your class, Mr. President," smiled Goss. "Have you ever eaten a Delicious?"

"You win, Albert," chuckled the president, "but the point I am trying to make is this—little farmers like myself, and the same goes for all other farmers who don't have the advantage of co-operatives, have encountered a lot of difficulty marketing their crops and getting their money since the war began because of the transportation problem and other factors."

"Don't you think the government should step in and buy up apples and other products that have been running into distribution troubles and store them in the warehouses?" the president asked Goss. "It would take a lot off the market and help many little farmers who are hard up for cash."

The president meditated for a moment and replied: "I guess you're right at that."

The meeting also thrashed out the question of price ceilings, Ed O'Neal of the Farm Bureau and Albert Goss of the Grange contending that if rationing were tight enough it wouldn't be necessary to have price ceilings, that rationing would automatically take care of prices. Justice Byrnes, Chester Davis and Jim Patton of the Farmers Union argued to the contrary. The president decided with them.

His order shortly thereafter putting price ceiling on almost everything was the chief result of the meeting.

Soldier Hopes to Help In Peace Building; Memories of Central Valley In Tunisia.

SOMEWHERE IN TUNISIA—You run onto some unusual people in the American army. For instance I know a corporal who can recite the Versailles Treaty by heart, and who can quote from memory every important military treaty since the Franco-Prussian war.

This man is Corp. William Nikolin, of Indianapolis. You call him Nick. He is 28, and has a gold tooth. He has lived 14 years in America and 14 years in Europe. He can talk in almost every language there is in Europe. Although born in America, he speaks English with quite an accent.

Nick studied journalism at Butler college and Columbia university. Then he went on to Europe, and took an M. A. degree in political history at Belgrade university.

For six years he worked on various European newspapers. He knows the Balkans intimately, and his manner of thinking is really more Balkan than American.

In 1939 Nick returned to America, because he saw the war coming and he wanted no part of it. He was disillusioned and sad over the state of things. He resolved he would never return to Europe under any circumstances. He turned his back.

And then he was drafted, and here he is headed right back for the old stamping grounds. But he is glad now. He's an excellent soldier, and outstandingly conscientious. He will be of great value when our armies get onto the continent.

But he sees further than that. He wants to be a part of the peace building. He wants to get his discharge over here, and stay on to cover the peace conferences. He feels himself especially equipped for the job.

Nick, in addition to his other duties, is a sort of personal assistant for two officers—Maj. Charles Miller of Detroit and Capt. Tony Lumpkin of Mexico. Mo. Nick looks after them as though they were babies. They have a tent buried in the ground, with a kerosene stove in it and every night just before bedtime they heat up some beans and make some chocolate and call Nick in, and they all sit there and eat and drink and discuss the world.

When we had the tent finished and staked down, I noticed the ground was crawling with ants. We had unwittingly opened up an enormous ant nest in the loose soil when we pulled up the whole tent down and pitched it under another tree.

But now I can put up my tent all by myself, in the dark, with a strong wind blowing and both hands tied behind my back. I can too.

YOU SEE little things in war-time that make you laugh. I remember the forenoon our troops were evacuating Sicily. The roads were lined with our convoys. Mixed in with them was the French artillery, withdrawing along with us.

The sight that struck me so funny—a caterpillar tractor was laboring up a slight grade in the gravel road, pulling a French 75 behind it. And as we watched, here came another 75, pulled by six straining horses, and sped right up to the motorized gun as though it were standing still.

Stale Navy News.

IT LOOKS as if the navy was up to its old trick of releasing stale information months late, but jizzed up to make it look as if the battle had just occurred.

For instance on March 13 many newspapers featured a navy announcement "U. S. SUB SINKS JAP. WARSHIP IN WILD BATTLE." Then followed an account, which, although no date was given, looked as if the battle had taken place just a few days before. Among other things, it listed Herbert A. Calcaterra as killed.

However, if anyone took the trouble to look up the American magazine for March he would have found the same story written by Lieut. Slade Cutter, former Navy torpedo boat star, in which he tells about a fight between a U. S. sub and a Jap warship, listing the same Calcaterra as killed.

The impression given by the navy's release was that something new was being announced. Yet the March American magazine appears on the newsstands in February and goes to press around late December. So the battle, announced by the navy in March must have taken place around November at the latest.

Merry-Go-Round.

AMBASSADOR John G. Winant has provided an apartment in London for six American soldiers wounded in action with the British Eighth army in Egypt. Three are Harvard men, three from Dartmouth. The six graduated as the top six in a British officers training school before going to Egypt with the British 60th regiment. This is the famous regiment which in Revolutionary times was withdrawn from action in America because it was too friendly to the colonial cause. . . . TUNIS BATTLE REPEATS STORY OF CARTHAGE

Fate of Empires Decided Before Where Yanks and British Fight Axis.

By PIERRE J. HUSS
(INS Staff Correspondent)
WITH THE ALLIED ARMIES
IN NORTHERN TUNISIA, April 12—(Delayed)—The spectacle of history in the act of repeating itself may be observed once again in the crucial battles now rocking the green hills and valleys in a shrinking semi-circle around Tunis.

These battles are taking place on the same blood-soaked battlefields of the Punic wars and other conflicts.

It was here that Hannibal's great empire and his capital city of Carthage, near Tunis, received their mortal blows from the Roman military genius, Scipio Africanus, on the same fields Allied guns are now reducing the retreating legions of Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini.

As I followed the Allied advance over African mountains and valleys over roads good and bad—some of them originally built by the Romans—I saw evidence of a greater empire than Hitler's will ever be. But now nothing except ruins of walls, aqueducts and arches remain to remind us that some two thousand years ago a high form of civilization existed in these regions.

If Hitler and Mussolini care to ponder the lessons of history, they might be reminded that the descendants of the Roman legions that conquered Carthage were themselves subjugated when the Roman empire fell apart.

Today as I drove over the French-held mountains from Kai-rouan to the Medjez-El-Bab battle sector I saw a column of weary Italian prisoners passing Roman ruins covering the hillside. Here were arches, a viaduct and a fallen coliseum. But the modern Italians marched past the ruins without glancing back and possibly without giving any thought to the fate of their ancestors.

It is grim justice that the same tactics and strategy which helped Hitler smash France are now being applied to German forces in Tunisia. These principles of warfare, according to military experts, originated in these same regions where a decisive conflict is now flaming.

It may or may not be somewhat consoling to Yanks and Tommys sitting in Tunisian slit trenches to know that some 2,000 years ago Hannibal made a stand for Carthage against Scipio Africanus. Hannibal tried blitz-krieg methods to save himself, but Scipio hammered him from all sides, drove him to the sea and frustrated his plans for an evacuation. The parallel is striking.

Hannibal had his own "dive bombers" and "tanks." They were elephants with trumpets tied to their trunks that caused them to shriek and scream, supposedly frightening the Romans.
The same principle is used today by the Nazis with their sirens attached to dive-bombing Stukas.

Hannibal also tried to shatter Scipio's legions with elephant charges and hundreds of rocks hurtling through the air in an artillery barrage aimed at dis-organizing the Roman lines.

It was the ancient version of the blitzkrieg, but it didn't work.
Many of the elephants turned and trampled their own ranks, while others were given a clear path through Scipio's ranks. The Romans then attacked from all sides as Hannibal's tank-like cavalry roared through the gap.

That is how Carthage was lost that day. Later Hannibal found the Roman fleet waiting to prevent an evacuation by sea.

Similarly the Allies today are raining blows on the Axis from all sides, giving the retreating enemy no chance to recuperate, rally or organize a counter-drive.
History is repeating itself once again.

MRS. LOUIS F. CIHAK

Like millions of other Americans, E. F. Cihak learned to rely on the dependability of The Associated Press.

Now a Lieutenant, a B-17 co-pilot, Cihak is down in New Guinea. Slightly wounded in a raid over Rabaul for which he was decorated, Cihak cabled his mother that he was all right. She would not believe him, thought he was covering up to ease her fears. Then Cihak went to Vern Haugland, AP war correspondent, and asked Haugland to let his mother know he was well.

"She will believe I am okay if The Associated Press says so", the husky
University of Illinois graduate told Haugland.

Haugland sent the message with his own assurance that it was true, and in Berwyn, Ill., Mrs. Louis F. Cihak, who has been under a physician's care for Mrs. Cihak was convinced—because

Traitor Hears Death Date Set

Death penalty for treason was given German-born Max Stephan, a restaurant keeper, who is shown being taken to an automobile after leaving court in Detroit where Federal Judge Arthur J. Tuttle sentenced him yesterday to die by hanging on April 27 but later in the day the supreme court granted an indefinite stay of execution to permit an appeal. Stephan was convicted of aiding in the escape of Oberleutenant Hans Peter Krug, Nazi war prisoner, from a Canadian concentration camp. Original execution date of last Nov. 13 was delayed by an appeal to the United States supreme court.

Start Hobby Now, Be Happy After War, Dean Urges

STATE COLLEGE, Pa.—(U.S.)—Start a hobby now to be happy after the war, Dr. M. R. Trabue, Dean of the School of Education at Pennsylvania State College recommends.

Forecasting a post-war era which will provide much more leisure time and open up a whole new series of recreational and educational opportunities, Dr. Trabue declared that "jobs will become increasingly mechanical and routinized."

"Many persons who now obtain satisfaction and fun from their jobs will find themselves in a world where those jobs either do not exist or are not stimulating enough."

"On the other hand," he added, "new jobs will appear. Many persons will be occupied in assisting others to find the best way to spend their leisure time. They will be in the fields of recreation, education, nutrition, music, art and hobbies."

Clerical, domestic and personal service and transportation industries will continue to expand, the dean predicted, adding that the same will be true of professional fields to some extent.

DECLARES JAPS MASSING HUGE PACIFIC FORCE

Honolulu Newspaper Attacks Commanders Who Kept Eyes on Africa, Europe.

(By International News Service) HONOLULU, April 12—(Delayed)—Stressing heavy Japanese reinforcements in the southwest Pacific "while our high command concentrated its attention on the European and African theaters," the Honolulu Advertiser warned editorially today that Japanese invasion of Australia "could mean the loss of the entire world war."

"For months," the Advertiser editorial said, "there has been a lull in the war with Japan, and while our high command concentrated its attention on the European and African theaters, the busy Japanese have been quietly amassing a tremendous force of ships, men, planes and guns for a large-scale attack."

"These concentrations, in the arc of islands north of Australia and extending through the Marshalls to Midway, have been repeatedly reported by Allied observers, and there has been time to send reinforcements of our own to that theater to meet this menace and at least keep a proper balance if not give us superiority."

"Yet from all indications, reinforcements have not gone and the result is that the Allies in the southwest Pacific have been fighting holding action with a token force. When the Japanese offensive comes, it is by no means inconceivable that that force will be overwhelmed no matter how bitterly it fights back nor what sacrifices it makes. . . . Our position in Australia and surrounding areas may very well be desperate; our forces may be beaten back and an actual invasion of Australia result."

"This would not only be disastrous to the cause of the United Nations in the Pacific but could mean the loss of the entire world war."

The editorial likewise took issue with the existing censorship operations, asserting:

"There is a growing number of agencies, bureaus and individuals who are setting up themselves as arbiters on what is good and what is not good for the American people. It is stupid oversight on their part—not to remember that Americans in the end always decide such matters for themselves."

"This is exactly what must be done when the hour arrives."

Nearly one-third of the land in Yugoslavia is forest; more than half the land is cultivated.

INVITES ENVOY TO INSTITUTE

Mansfield and Ashland were among the 40 Ohio cities which today were asked to send one representative each to a three-day civilian defense driver's institute opening April 26 at Ohio State university in Columbus.

Sponsored by Ohio State university, the Ohio State Council of Defense, and the state automobile association, the institute will be conducted by Mrs. Mildred McKay, director of safety and education for the automobile association.

Purpose of the course will be to teach OGD workers how to operate cars during an air raid or black-out. Graduates will be authorized to teach similar courses in their home cities.

The Mansfield delegate to the school had not been chosen today.

DECLARES JAPS MASSING HUGE PACIFIC FORCE

Honolulu Newspaper Attacks Commanders Who Kept Eyes on Africa, Europe.

(By International News Service) HONOLULU, April 12 - (Delayed) Stressing heavy Japanese reinforcements in the southwest Pacific "while our high command concentrated its attention on the European and African theaters," the Honolulu Advertiser warned editorially today that Japanese invasion of Australia "could mean the loss of the entire world war." "For months," the Advertiser editorial said, "there has been a lull in the war with Japan, and while our high command concentrated its attention on the European and African theaters, the busy Japanese have been quietly amassing a tremendous force of ships, men, planes and guns for a large-scale attack."

"These concentrations, in the arc of islands north of Australia and extending through the Marshall Islands to Midway, have been repeatedly reported by Allied observers, and there has been time to send reinforcements of our own to that theater to meet this menace and at least keep a proper balance if not give us superiority."

"Yet from all indications, reinforcements have not gone and the result is that the Allies in the southwest Pacific have been fighting holding action with a token force. When the Japanese offensive comes, it is by no means inconceivable that that force will be overwhelmed no matter how bitterly it fights back nor what sacrifices it makes. . . . Our position in Australia and surrounding areas may very well be desperate; our forces may be beaten back and an actual invasion of Australia result."

McArthur Headquarters Warns Ships Just 3 Days Away From New Guinea.

ping, a concentration of approximately 250,000 tons has been maintained in or around Rabaul since for the past several months.

"Other Japanese bases on the arc—Palau, Manila, Soerabaja—are within easy concentration range of the 2,500-mile battle line which envelops the upper half of Australia.

"Constant convoys operating beyond the range of our air forces are being pushed forward to reinforce the enemy."

Fifteen of the raiders actually were seen to crash. Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters communique said, while 15 others were so badly damaged they probably could not return to their base.

Japanese bombs started firing on two small Allied vessels in the harbor but the flames were controlled quickly, and a third vessel was heavily hit and forced onto the beach. It was announced. Damage to beach installations was said to have been negligible.

The attackers numbered between 75 and 100, it was estimated, including 45 medium and dive bombers with a fighter escort. Allied fighter losses were moderate, headquarters said.

The first attack this week occurred Sunday at Oro bay, on the east coast of Papua, and 24 of the Japanese fleet of 45 fighters and bombers were knocked out of action.

The next day some 100 Japanese planes struck at Port Moresby, main Allied base on the southeast coast of New Guinea, and 37 enemy planes were claimed as victims.

A special communique, unusual for Gen. MacArthur's headquarters, announced the raid early yesterday but gave no details. Later it was learned Australians flying P-40's and American pilots in P-38 planes, aided by anti-aircraft batteries, accomplished the dispersal of the Japanese air armada.

Allied bombers returned to Hansa bay on the north New Guinea coast and found one 6,000-ton cargo vessel left from a previously-attacked enemy convoy. Three direct hits at low level set it ablaze and two hours afterward it was seen sinking by the stern, headquarters said.

Japs Continue Attacks In China

CHUNGKING—(P)—A military spokesman said today that Chinese troops had evacuated Wanshih, a town in the central Tung Tung lake battle area which they had recaptured, and that Japanese attacks were continuing on several fronts.

The Central News agency reported that reinforced Japanese units at Hwajung, on the north shore of Lake Tung Tung, had begun a new attack westward at midnight Wednesday. A Chinese spokesman said the Japanese had switched commanders in Burma, apparently preparing for a new drive against the Yunnan border of southern China.

Says Japs Have Too Many Planes

SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA April 14—(Delayed)—Lt. Gen. George C. Kenney, speaking for publication today for the first time since he returned from his mission to Washington, told reporters "I'll be pleased when we have the Jap planes outnumbered five to one."

Fighters and bombers hummed overhead as he talked with reporters at his advanced headquarters.

An air raid alarm sounded just as he concluded with the statement:

"There is no indication now that the Japs want to pick up his bags and go back to Japan." The Allied air commander strolled out to look for the raiders, but they never showed up.

"In daily combat," General Kenney said, "we are doing pretty well, but the Jap has too many airplanes around to suit me. I don't like to be outnumbered. When we shoot down a plane the Jap replaces it in a few days. When he shoots down one of ours, the replacement has to come a long way and it takes time.

"We are forced to shoot down four or five to one to keep the score straight. That's a pretty heavy burden on the boys. I'd like to tell them they could shoot down one for one and still be all right."

committee to sit in on the United Nations conference. Arrangements for press coverage of the sessions, as disclosed through the state department, would bar all reporters from the meetings except opening and closing formal sessions.

"By these arrangements the American people will be denied news to which they are entitled and from exerting any influence in shaping the decisions which will affect our nation in the future," a statement issued by the correspondents committee said.

"The standing committee is particularly concerned lest arrangements for this conference become the pattern for other international conferences which inevitably must follow.

"The loyalty of the American Press has not been questioned during this war. Its voluntary measures in withholding information of possible aid to the enemy has been commended by the president of the United States. That voluntary and willingly-given co-operation will continue.

"The conference in question will not deal with military matters. It will deal with one of the most vital elements of our national life—food. The standing committee believes the American people are entitled to know the decisions made through prompt on-the-ground reporting by their traditionally free press."

rural campaigns and the special drives being carried on by local organizations, officials said. Money coming in to drive leaders now is all counted together and will be separated later to give final figures on these campaigns.

The nation as a whole has subscribed well over $5,000,000,000 of the $13,000,000,000 asked by the government.

Subscriptions of $2,015,000,000 from non-banking sources were reported to the treasury by the New York Federal Reserve bank and another $2,000,000,000 was subscribed in the first three days by the banks.

items over $4,000,000,000 and no reports available yet from the 11 other federal reserve banks, officials here said that there was no doubt that the grand total was well over the $5,000,000,000 mark. Banks were allowed a quota of $2,000,000,000 of the 7% certificates in the first three days of the drive, but there will be no more bank subscriptions to swell the grand total until the last three days of the three-week campaign when the banks will be permitted to subscribe to a quota of $2,000,000,000 of two per cent treasury bonds of 1950-52.

carrying transports, was a severe blow to the enemy.

In Russia, Soviet dispatches reported today that some of the war's heaviest air battles were erupting over the mud-bogged land front, with Red army planes successfully beating off German attacks at cities, railways and troop positions.

A Berlin radio broadcast hinted strongly the German high command was marshalling its forces for a renewal of the drive eastward, but the situation as a whole remained quiet. Moscow said yesterday the Nazis were making sharp, air-supported attacks on the Leningrad front.

Churchill Says Sub Repairs Dislocated

LONDON—(AP)—Prime Minister Winston Churchill told commons today that British and American bombers had achieved a "considerable measure of success" in dislocating repair, transport and power facilities at Lorient and St Nazaire, German submarine bases on the French Atlantic coast.

Asked about the scope of destruction to the concrete submarine shelters at the two bases, he said some damage was done to them, but emphasized that serious damage was not expected.

Germans Fear Slave Labor, Says Bern

BERN, Switzerland—(AP)—A growing fear of foreign workers in Germany and displays of resentment against the government were reported today in an article in the Socialist weekly Die Nation entitled "How It Looks In Germany."

Anti-government inscriptions were reported to have appeared on buildings after the bombings of Ulm, Munich and Stuttgart and the paper said "people believed the most fantastic rumors . . . such as that certain cities were not bombed because they were communist centers."

The article continued "Arrests of so-called state enemies increase constantly . . . and the fear of foreign workers is growing. People think they might join in a communist uprising . . ."

Trap Trips Up 'Mystery Boy,' Admits He's Just a 'Runaway'

In the course of their ride which took them not only through the Lucas-Perryville area, but to Pavoia, Ashland and Hayesville as well, the sheriff, a great favorite with the boy, gradually led him into the trap.

After repeating innumerable times that he came by bus "somewhere where his grandmother met him two days before, the sheriff asked him how long it took them to reach home after leaving the bus. When he replied "about an hour," the sheriff countered, "you don't know how long an hour is."

"It is 60 minutes," he replied, and "there are 24 hours in a day."

Further questions led to the discovery that he knew considerable more than he had revealed. Finally the sheriff, praising his knowledge, remarked that he could not understand how a boy as bright as he could be as dumb on other subjects.

The ruse was successful.

The lad unfolded his story but expressed hope that he would not have to return home. He said he had no desire to see either his parents or his younger sister, he told the sheriff.

He recounted that he "hitchhiked" to Mansfield, leaving his last ride at the overhead bridge on Park avenue east, from where he walked the tracks to the home where he first stopped. He apparently got the Lucas-Perryville connection from a road sign along the way since he told the sheriff he had never been either place.

Sheriff Robinson returned the boy to the detention home and immediately telephoned Akron authorities to contact the boy's parents. Akron police said his disappearance had been reported April 6. They said he was a fifth grade pupil in Lincoln school in Akron and that he had run away from home on a previous occasion but returned after two day's absence.

The father told the Akron authorities who notified him of his son's whereabouts that he would come to Mansfield for him sometime today but he had not arrived at noon.

Mrs. Paul T. Hoffman, in charge of the Salvation Army detention rooms where the boy is quartered, said he was well-mannered and eager and capable of helping with all household chores. He keeps his room in good order and asks to be allowed to assist with paving and household work, she replied. "He does a good job, too," she concluded.

pen coast — particularly in Italy, whose army has taken heavy blows in Africa and whose land stretches down to within a short plane hop from Allied Tunisian bases.

A Dakar radio broadcast recorded by CBS in New York said Hitler had decided to take complete control of the Italian navy, sending a mission to Rome to reorganize it, and that several contingents of Italian troops had been withdrawn from Tunisia.)

Madrid dispatches said that German engineers, dissatisfied with defense works in Greece and Mediterranean islands, called upon Italy for 30,000 workers to hasten fortifications.

Swedish dispatches from Rome said "stern" measures had been required to prevent a collapse of lagging morale in the Italian army.

Reports circulated that Nazi Field Marshal Erwin Rommel had left Tunisia by plane for Italy to get instructions, then had returned with word that the Axis must hold as long as possible in North Africa and evacuate key men only at the last minute—indicating no Dunkirk effort is contemplated.

Some Axis troops already have been pulled out by plane. Fifty two Junkers transports had taken off some high officers, leaving Italians behind, according to Swiss reports. The Nazis were believed to have concentrated from 2,000 to 3,000 planes in southern Italy.

The London radio, quoting neutral sources, said high German officers had arrived in Paris for a European defense conference.

Nervousness Causes Child To Stutter

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH.D.

The increase of juvenile delinquency in recent months and the many other wartime problems in relation to children have caused a great many writers and public speakers to admit the need of tightening up on home discipline.

One outstanding American leader in child care and family relations who has for more than two decades championed the no-spanking-at-any-age doctrine, has written recently that some spanking might be necessary in wartime as a last resort.

Many other child specialists who spent years at indoctrinating parents not to restrain their children lest they "warp these youngsters' personalities" are beginning to admit publicly the need of some restraint and effective home control. For example, one such specialist recently wrote that the tot "has to discover that his parents mean it when they tell him to sit in bed," that "they must put him back in bed again and hold him there if necessary."

Hold him? What could be more torturous? Why not, as I have advised for years, spank him the minute he gets out of bed without permission? It took a war to cause that writer to admit that some control is desirable. Should this war last a few years longer, this same writer will probably admit the need of some physical punishment to control the tot.

As you who have read my column for years very well know, I did not wait for a war to advise the need of corporal punishment to train the child under the age of three or five.

If the mother has, in developing control of her youngster from three to five, been able to assign him effectively to sit in a chair doing nothing for a definite time, a substitute caring for this child during her absence at work might safely and effectively resort to this punishment. But before this kind of punishment can be effective, the youngster must have learned earlier that leaving the chair for one moment without permission is painfully costly to him.

Those young mothers who would like to have further suggestions and more detailed guidance for training their tot in the meaning of NO should write me in care of this paper, enclosing a self-addressed envelope stamped with three cents.

Q. My three-year-old boy has been stuttering for the last four weeks. Up until this time he talked as plainly as any adult. How can I help him overcome this? What are the causes of stuttering in a child who has always talked so well?

A. As a rule the cause is some emotional disturbance or what is popularly called "nervousness." You may receive my special bulletin on stuttering in the young child without cost to you by writing me in care of this paper enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three cent stamp on it.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)
By ADELE GARRISON

"She carried out the criminal's tradition," I commented.

"What?" Hal countered. "Oh yes, I see; taking an alias with the same initials as in the real name."

"Of course I dropped everything at seeing Katharine's name," he went on, "and I had the woman sent in to my private office."

"I disliked her at sight, I do not care for her type anyway, but chiefly because something about her spelled cobra to me, and I resolved to watch my step—and her."

"She did not mince words, but went directly to the point. 'You are Dr. Hal Meredith, famous alienist?' she demanded."

"I told her my name was Hal Meredith and I was an alienist, but did not know I was famous."

"Oh yes, you do," she retorted. "You are very well aware of it, and I do not imagine you would like to have anything happen to topple you from your pinnacle of fame."

Blackmail Attempt.

"I listened warily at that, for I have been subjected to attempted blackmail in my time, and I recognized the approach. I did not answer, just looked steadily at her, but she did not time and her hard, bold eyes stared at me."

"Awfully hard-boiled, aren't you, big boy," she taunted. "Going to show me that you aren't afraid of anything I can do. But you just listen to me for a minute. Do you know that baby doll of yours, Katharine?"

"Yes, she is my daughter," I said, "and she is going to dance to the tune I'm going to play in about a second?"

"I was out of my chair by that time, divided between the wish to silence her with my bare hands and the knowledge that I would do better to call in an officer. But she pulled out a revolver and leveled it at me."

"Don't think I didn't plant all my hope where it would do the most good before I ever came in, she said. 'If there's any shooting in here, no matter what the result is, you can be sure the newspapers will have a spicy account of that brokenhearted woman, Rose Harding, who shot Hal Meredith because he'd been two-timing her with Jack Bickett's wife Katharine. The lady will be well smeared, with pictures all over the front pages, and you know how many people will worry whether or not it's true.'"

"I waited quietly for a second, then said with apparent resignation, but revolving a dozen schemes for foiling her. 'All right, you win. What do you want?'"

"She lowered the revolver then and put it away."

"I know a man of his word if I see one," she said. "Too bad you're carrying the torch for that milk-and-water Katharine. I might fancy you myself."

"I do not know how I kept myself from striking her," Hal went on, "but the thought that it might mean the crucifixion of Katharine in the newspapers held me back."

Wants Information.

"Get on with what you want," I said, as steadily as I could.

"Not money," she said to my surprise. "I'm not that variety of blackmailer. But I want some information, and I'm going to get it."

"Katharine Bickett knows where her husband can be found," she went on. "I've been prevented from seeing her, but there's no ban on you; never has been that I can find out," she finished with an insulting leer, "so you're going to go to her, get that information and bring it back to me."

"And if I don't," I said.

"Suit yourself," she said carelessly. "If you don't, the newspapers are going to carry the story of Jack Bickett suing his

HOROSCOPE

For Friday, April 16

Although there may be a great urge to lively action on this day, judging by the predominant lunar transit, it is doubtful if the expected progress could be achieved under certain adverse aspects. All pertaining to writing, publicity, communications, travel or agencies might thrive, at the same time there may be opposition from elders. Matters concerning career or profession might be more gratifying.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a lively and perhaps exciting year, with much stirring both at home and abroad. Travel agencies, communications and writings, agreements or contracts may be under high stimulus for progress, but the co-operation of superiors, elders or financial interests might not be forthcoming. Concentrate on public and professional ambitions.

A child born on this day may have exceptional talent and versatility but its erratic impulses or emotions as well as critical tendencies may prove a defeating factor, unless well directed.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay
"The Authority on Authorities"

SPLIT RESPONSIBILITY

In defending your side against a squeeze play by the declarer, the basic principle to bear in mind is co-operation between yourself and your partner. When your discard on the long suit, which is being used to hamstring you, try to select your cards so that you retain protection against a certain suit or suits, and let your partner guard the other threatened place or places. If you do a good job in that respect, you may make the declarer's success impossible.

To build a double squeeze for the thirteenth, leaving in the dummy the last club used for the squeeze, also the heart 9 and diamond Q, and in the closed hand the spade 10 plus the diamond A-8.

So the order of tricks was the heart K, heart Q, spade A, spade K for discard of the diamond 10, club J, club A, heart A and four more clubs. As the last was played at one table, East held the diamond J-10 and the spade Q, and West the heart J and diamond K-2. East had to keep his spade to guard against the 10, so threw a diamond. Off came the spade from South, and West now had the impossible job of protecting against the heart 9 and the second diamond. He threw a diamond, whereupon two tricks there made the contract.

At the other table, East decided to keep his spade Q and the heart 10, knowing that if North had the heart J there was no hope. So he wound up with those cards and one diamond for his last three. He discarded the diamond on the eleventh trick, keeping the spade and heart guarded. This enabled West to hold onto two diamonds to prevent that menace, so that the squeeze did not work.

Players who understand their squeeze plays were in the South position at both duplicate tables where this contract was reached, and their play went exactly the same, trick for trick. After the heart 2 was led, both declarers counted twelve tricks and decided

Truck Operators Warned to Return Excess Gas Stamps

Truck operators who fail to turn back their excess gasoline mileage stamps at the end of each quarter of the year face the loss of their certificates of war necessity. ODT officials at the Cleveland regional office warned today.
In many cases, northern Ohio truckers failed to report their unused stamps at the end of the first three months of the year and reports have come to the ODT office that the stamps have gone into black market channels.

A number of truckers failed to use their mileage stamps during the first three-month period because stamps were issued on operators' estimates which exceeded their actual needs.
ODT regulations require that unused stamps be returned to the rationing board in the trucker's county. Stamps are issued quarterly.

IN THE CAPITAL--

WASHINGTON—The dilemma of the Pacific is very well stated by one of the wisest diplomats in the United Nations, Walter Nash, New Zealand minister to the United States.

He says we are not going to confine ourselves to a holding war in the Pacific while Germany is being licked. He says it is a mistake to imagine that the United Nations are putting all their strength into the war in Europe and leaving Japan until the war is over. But at the same time, he says, it would be dangerous so to divide the forces as to run the risk that they would be effective in neither theater.

American army and navy officers from the South Pacific and southwest Pacific commands of Admiral Halsey and General MacArthur have been here for some time pleading their case for more help. Naturally the decisions are not revealed. It is not likely that they received as much as they asked for by any means, but they must have received something. Our production is sufficient to permit some help to them.

That is what must be meant when it is said that we are not going to make a fatal division of our forces, but still are not going to confine ourselves to holding in the Pacific. We shall keep hammering.

The speech of Prime Minister Churchill made it clear that we intend to strike for a decision first against Germany. So the bulk of our air force will be concentrated against her.

Meantime in the Pacific airplanes can do the work against Japanese ships that German submarines do against our ships in the Atlantic. We are using submarines in the Pacific but airplanes are probably sinking or damaging more ships now.

That is because of the advanced technique developed under General Kenney. It is not publicly described, but it was responsible for the spectacular success of the Bismarck sea battle and for

SENATE GETS SHARE-RIDERS' LIABILITY BILL

Sponsor Says He'll Press For Quick Action on Measure To Grant Exemption.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—Sen. John Stephenson (R.-Columbiana) said today he would press for quick action on his bill to exempt motorists from liability for the injury or death of passengers in "share-the-ride" programs.

The proposed legislation, introduced yesterday, is tagged "emergency" so it would become effective immediately upon enactment. Otherwise its operation would be deferred for 90 days.

Stephenson said last week's decision of the Ohio supreme court, holding that "share-the-ride" drivers were responsible for their passengers' safety, threatened to disrupt programs providing transportation for thousands of industrial workers.

Automobile owners, he commented, would be hesitant to "give a lift" to others in view of the risk of paying damages in event of an accident.

His bill does not exempt from liability operators involved in accidents because of "willful or wanton misconduct."

The Stephenson bill defines a "share-the-ride" program as transportation, with or without compensation, of a group of persons riding together voluntarily or under an agreement made in accordance with regulations of a governmental agency.

The senate, after sending the measure to a committee, was scheduled today to vote on legislation increasing the authority of the state and local defense councils. The functions of the state council, now restricted to assisting in coordinating local defense activities, would be extended to "coordinating, directing and supervising" them.

The state and local councils also would be empowered to suspend traffic and lighting laws in emergencies.

A maximum penalty of a $500 fine and 60 days in jail would be provided for anyone violating civilian defense regulations.

The house voted to permit co-operatives to add services to their sales activities, but refused to allow them to distribute profits to patrons who are not co-operative members.

AKRON FACING TRAFFIC TIE-UP

Transportation Workers Vote to Strike Sunday.

AKRON—(U.P.)—A transportation strike which would cripple Akron's vital war industries threatened the rubber city today following union authorization of a strike to enforce wage demands.

Members of the United Transportation Workers Union (C.I.O.) voted to quit their jobs at the Akron Transportation company at 4 a. m. Sunday unless agreements were reached on wage issues before the deadline.

Local union president William Wright said the "boys mean business this time" because of delay in settling negotiations for a contract to replace one which expired April 1.

WLB ASKED TO PROBE STRIKE

Will Fix Responsibility For Work Tie-up at War Plant In Cleveland.

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND — The national war labor board was asked today to investigate and determine responsibility for the one-day strike at the main plant of Thompson Products, incorporated.

The request was made by the regional WLB after Ed Hall, CIO United Automobile Workers organizer, announced the unionists voted to comply with a regional board order and return to their jobs this morning.

Hall said the unionists walked out in protest over dismissal of 12 employees Monday. The regional WLB declared its back-to-work order did not apply to the 12 discharged men, identified by Hall as union committee men.

The union organizer maintained R. J. Thomas, international president of the UAW, had authorized the strike unless the WLB ordered the 12 dismissed employees reinstated and their discharges investigated, or recommended that the government assume control of the plant.

Ray S. Livingstone, company vice president, said only 343 employees were absent from the three shifts during the walkout while Hall declared no more than 500 passed through the picket lines.

REPORT 70,000 MADE HOMELESS

Travelers Say Thousands of Fires Scorched Berlin After Last Raid.

(By Associated Press)

ANKARA, Turkey, April 14—(Delayed)—Travelers arriving from Germany today said "literally thousands" of fires were started in Berlin and thousands were homeless throughout the city after the last RAF raid, which they described as Berlin's worst.

Some of the fires, they said, burned three days.

The British were reported to have used aerial torpedoes which blasted windows and lifted off roofs in entire districts. Some of the explosives, it was said, apparently were set with time fuses because numerous areas were blocked off for seven days.

The removal squads mostly were war prisoners promised their freedom if they did the job successfully.

The travelers said that after the March raids 70,000 were homeless in Berlin and the dead totaled at least 500.

Although German soldiers were declared to be eating well, the food and clothing situation in the capital was described as bad.

Weekly rations were reported to be approximately six ounces of butter or margarine, 12 ounces of meat, and nine ounces of cereal. Twelve ounces of bread daily and five ounces of cheese monthly were other rations.

Clothing was said to be practically unobtainable and most Berlin shops and places of amusement closed. Berlin was called a city of officials, wounded and women.

Civilian morale, the travelers reported, was poor. "The old confidence in Hitler has disappeared, the hope of victory has been given up, and everyone is asking when the war will finish," they said.

WAR AGAINST BUREAUS ENDS HOPE OF RECESS

Congress Embroiled In Fight Over Parity Payments, OPA Measures.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — With the house embroiled in a fresh outbreak of warfare against executive bureaus and agencies, all hope vanished today for a congress recess for Easter.

House Democratic leader John McCormack and Republican leader Joseph Martin, Jr., began advising members to remain in Washington as the following legislative situation shaped up:

1. A major fight appeared in prospect over provisions in the pending $707,000,000 agriculture appropriation bill aimed at abolition of the farm security administration, the crop insurance program and parity payments.

2. The sniping at the much-criticized OPA increased by bounds as two special investigating committees, one headed by Rep. Wright Patman (D.) Tex., the other by Rep. Howard Smith (D.) Va., probed into the price ceiling of petroleum and the OPA's attempt to impose grade labeling on canned goods.

3. The Republicans perfected plans for immediate house consideration of two GOP-sponsored resolutions to authorize the appointment of special congressional committees to attend as official observers both the United Nations conference on refugees, starting in Bermuda next week, and a similar conference on food, slated to be held in Hot Springs, Va., next month.

4. The smoldering GOP-Democratic feud over pay-as-you-go tax legislation appeared certain to break into the open within a few days as house Democratic leaders pushed plans to postpone reconsideration of the issue and, instead, pass a withholding tax bill to collect income taxes directly out of pay envelopes.

5. The Dies committee is launching an investigation into the office of war information where committee investigators claim that approximately 200 employees are affiliated with radical groups.

Martin was emphatic in his assertion that the two-week recess which the house scheduled to start tomorrow is now out.

"We are not going to take any recess—I think that's definite," he said.

"It looks hopeless," McCormack asserted.
